HIS FAMILY AND DESCENDANTS

BY BAYLESS E. HARDIN

Frankfort, Kentucky

During the persecution of Protestants in Scotland, William Brown and his wife fled and settled near Londonderry, in Ireland, where they had two sons, William and James. James married Jennett Stevenson, by whom he had seven sons, without a daughter, to wit: William, Samuel (who died early), Samuel, David, Alexander, Benjamin, and John. Of these Samuel, Alexander, Benjamin, and John emigrated to America. John was the only son who obtained a profession, that of a divine, which he pursued with laborous zeal for upwards of fifty years.<sup>1</sup>

Rev. John<sup>1</sup> Brown was eminently distinguished for many years, both in Virginia and Kentucky, as a Presbyterian minister of piety and talents. He was a graduate of Nassau Hall, Princeton, in 1749, and a licentiate of the New Castle Presbytery, which, along with the New Brunswick and New York presbyteries, supplied missionaries to the Timber Ridge neighborhood of Augusta County, Virginia. In 1753 the Timber Ridge congregation united with that of New Providence in presenting a call through the Presbytery to Rev. Brown, who had visited the frontier and was willing to cast his lot among them.<sup>2</sup> Consequently, at the age of twenty-five, he became their first pastor. He was united in marriage to Margaret Preston, who was born in Ireland in 1730, the second daughter of John and Elizabeth (Patton) Preston.<sup>3</sup> She was a lady of strong intellect, cultivated mind, and much energy of character.

For a succession of years Rev. Brown served the two congregations, which were adjoining, and each very extensive. His residence was about a quarter of a mile from the north end of the village of Fairfield, in the direction of New Providence, being a very convenient position for his extensive charge. In 1767 some difficulty arose between Rev. Brown and the Timber Ridge congregation, and he withdrew from the ministerial care of that people, although they petitioned against his withdrawal, and confined his labors to New Providence the remainder of his active life.<sup>4</sup>

Rev. Brown kept up a flourishing "grammar school" near his residence, which was adopted in 1774 by the Presbytery of Hanover, after they had been engaged for some years on the subject of founding a literary institution, the location of which should be in the Great Valley of Virginia. In the fall of that year, Rev. William Graham was invited to engage in the classical school under the direction of Rev. Brown.<sup>5</sup> In 1777 the school was removed to Timber Ridge, and from thence to the neighborhood of Lexington, also in Virginia. The councils and efforts of the Presbytery resulted first in the establishment of Liberty Hall Academy, and ultimately in Washington and Lee University.<sup>6</sup>

In 1796 Rev. Brown, weighed down with the infirmities of age, resigned his charge of New Providence, and soon followed his children to Kentucky, where he settled in Woodford County and spent the remainder of his days there and in Frankfort.<sup>7</sup> He became affiliated with the historic Pisgah Church in his new location and served faithfully until his death at "Liberty Hall," Frankfort, in 1803, in the 75th year of his age. His wife preceded him to the grave, dying in 1802, in her 73rd year. Both were buried in the Pisgah Church yard, and a suitable monument erected to their memory, but some years later their remains were removed to the Frankfort Cemetery.<sup>8</sup> Rev. John and Margaret Preston Brown were the parents of eleven children, seven of whom reached maturity:<sup>9</sup>

I. Elizabeth<sup>2</sup> Brown, born December 4, 1755, married Thomas B. Craighead, of Tennessee, a well-known Presbyterian divine, and left seven children.<sup>10</sup>

IV. William<sup>2</sup> Brown, born November 22, 1759.<sup>13</sup>

V. William<sup>2</sup> Brown, born November 22, 1760, was educated at Princeton, studied medicine and commenced the practice in South Carolina with fair prospects of success, but died shortly afterwards, unmarried.<sup>14</sup>

VI. Mary<sup>2</sup> Brown, born July 14, 1763, married Dr. Alexander Humphreys, an eminent physician of Staunton, Virginia, and after his death removed to Kentucky with her family, consisting of seven children.<sup>15</sup>

VII. James<sup>2</sup> Brown, born September 11, 1766, was a distinguished lawyer, and first Secretary of State of Kentucky. He married Ann Hart, daughter of Colonel Thomas Hart, but left no family.<sup>16</sup>

VIII. Samuel<sup>2</sup> Brown, born January 30, 1769, was an eminent physician, and professor in the Medical school of Transylvania. He married Catherine Percy, of Alabama and Mississippi, and left one son and one daughter.<sup>17</sup>

IX. David<sup>2</sup> Brown, born July 8, 1772.<sup>18</sup>

DR. PRESTON W.<sup>2</sup> BROWN, the youngest child of Rev. John and Margaret Preston Brown, was born in Augusta County, Virginia, in that part now incorporated in Rockbridge County. He was educated in his father's school,<sup>20</sup> and studied medicine under his brother-in-law, Dr. Alexander Humphreys, of Staunton, Virginia, and Dr. Rush, of Philadelphia. He emigrated to Kentucky with his father, and settled in Woodford County. After his marriage<sup>21</sup> on October 13, 1802, to Elizabeth Watts, daughter of Colonel William Watts<sup>22</sup> and his wife, Mary

Scott Watts,<sup>23</sup> of Flat Creek, Campbell County, Virginia, who brought him wealth and connection with a large and prominent family, they resided at "Sumners Forest"<sup>24</sup> in Woodford County, where Dr. Brown enjoyed a large practice, there and in nearby Frankfort.<sup>25</sup> About 1818 he removed to Frankfort, expecting a broader field for one of his talents and profession, but continued to hold in his possession the old homestead in Woodford County.<sup>26</sup> He died September 23, 1826, in Jefferson County, Kentucky, whither he had moved that year.<sup>27</sup> After Dr. Brown's death, Mrs. Brown resided in Frankfort most of the time until after her death in May, 1843.<sup>28</sup>

<sup>23</sup> Mary Scott Watts was the daughter of Colonel Thomas Scott, of Prince Edward County, Virginia, a soldier and Burgess from that county, 1769-1777. Two of her brothers were officers in the Revolutionary War, Colonel Charles Scott and General John B. Scott. Her sister, Martha Scott, married Ralph Flippen.

<sup>24</sup> "Sumners Forest" was one of the noted farms of Woodford County, located seven miles from Versailles on the Lexington road. It was a land grant to Jethro Sumners, of North Carolina. The tract was purchased in 1795 by Senator John Brown, of Frankfort, after which he brought his father and mother, the Rev. John and Margaret Brown, to Kentucky from Virginia, and domiciled them on the estate. Rev. Brown deeded the property to his son, Dr. Preston Brown, who held it in his possession until his death, after which it was sold to his kinsman, David Carlyle Humphries, son of Dr. Alexander Humphries and Mary Brown, of Virginia, she being a daughter of Rev. John Brown. (Railey's History of Woodford County, Kentucky, page 78.) Rev. John Brown's deed of his property to his son, Preston Brown, recorded in Deed Book C, page 534, Woodford County, Kentucky, follows:

"Know all men by these presents that I John Brown of Woodford County and State of Kentucky for and in consideration of a bond executed to me by Preston Brown of Woodford County & Kentucky State for the annual payment of one hundred Dollars the receipt of which bond I do hereby acknowledge I have given granted & sold & by these presents grant bargain and sell unto the said Preston Brown his heirs assigns Executors all my household & kitchen furniture, farming utensils, waggon & team, cows, hogs & sheep now in my possession twelve negroes Dennis & Joe Lucy and her offspring Phoebe and her two female Children & those she may hereafter have, Jenny and her offspring to him and his heirs etc forever, reserving the use of one girl named Jenny and one boy named Isaac during the term of my life, also reserving the use of the house & property if I should think proper giving proper credits for the same on the annual bond executed to me by the said P Brown, all & every of the above property I do warrant & defend to the said Preston & his heirs and assigns forever. In testimony I bind myself my heirs etc for the true performance in the sum of one thousand pounds Kentucky currency—Witness my hand and seal this thirty first of May one thousand eight hundred & two.

"At a court held for Woodford County the 2d day of August 1802, This bill of Sale was proved to be the Act and deed of the said John Brown, etc."

<sup>25</sup> Preston Brown is listed as Captain of a Rifle Company in Rockbridge County, Virginia, in 1797 (Morton's History of Rockbridge County, page 396). He appears on the Tax Books of Woodford County, Kentucky, for the first time on May 15, 1800, having in his family two white males over the age of 21 years (perhaps himself and father), 12 slaves and 6 horses. Comparing this listing with that of his father in 1798 and 1799 (Woodford County Tax Books) the number of slaves and horses are so nearly the same that it can be reasonably assumed that Rev. John transferred his property to his son, and became a member of his household.

Preston Brown is listed with this same taxable property on August 11, 1801.

He first appears with land on June 15, 1802, when he is listed with 500 acres on Clear Creek, which had originally been entered, surveyed, and patented in the name of Jethro Sumners, 12 slaves and 7 horses. Dr. Brown continued to be listed with this tract of land, with some slight variation of acreage, until his death. Some representative listings from the Woodford County Tax Books are as follows:

July 28, 1803; 560 acres on Clear Creek, 12 slaves, 4 horses.

May 18, 1804; 460 acres on Clear Creek, 13 slaves, 6 horses.

July 25, 1805; 400 acres on Clear Creek, 12 slaves, 13 horses.

July 14, 1810; 400 acres on Clear Creek, 25 slaves, 20 horses, one wheel carriage.

1816:—492 acres on Clear Creek, 31 slaves, 12 horses, and one four-wheel carriage. The land was valued at $18.00 per acre.

<sup>26</sup> After 1818 Preston Brown is listed on the Tax Books of Franklin County, moving to Frankfort, perhaps, to enjoy a better practice of his profession. He is not recorded on the Tax Books of Woodford and Franklin County in 1817 and 1818, but in 1819 he is listed in the latter county as having the 492 acre tract on Clear Creek in Woodford County, 28 slaves, 8 horses, and one four-wheel carriage. Consecutive listings in Franklin County run as follows:

1820:—352 acres in Woodford County on Clear Creek, 24 slaves, 5 horses, and one four-wheel carriage.

1821:—352 acres in Woodford County on Clear Creek, 24 slaves, 5 horses, and one four-wheel carriage.

1822:—8 slaves, 1 horse, one carriage; 1st School District, or Precinct. In 1822 Dr. Brown also appears on the Tax Book of Woodford County, having 492 acres in that county, 700 acres in Jefferson County, and 300 acres in Butler County.

Tax Books of the various counties with which he was associated in land holdings do not show him in 1823, but in 1824 he is listed in Franklin County with 500 acres on Clear Creek in Woodford County, 700 acres on the Ohio River in Jefferson County, 300 acres on Green River in Butler County, and 50 acres in Warren County.

He does not appear on the available tax books of 1825, but in 1826 he is listed in Franklin County with 500 acres in Woodford, 700 in Jefferson, 150 in Butler, and 50 in Warren.

In 1827 the Preston W. Brown Estate, J. Brown, Executor, is listed on the Tax Book of Jefferson County:—850 acres on the Ohio River, 16 slaves, 4 horses.

"I Preston B. Brown of Louisville, Kentucky, do make and ordain the following as my last will and testament.

"It is my will and desire that my estate both real and personal be equally divided amongst my children. I do hereby appoint my beloved wife Elizabeth Brown Executrix and my brother John Brown Executor of my estate and I direct that they take the management of my estate into their hands and manage the same as they may deem proper and that no kind of security shall be required of them as Executrix and Executor as aforesaid. I further direct that no public Sale shall be made of any of my property. In Witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and Seal this 22d day of September 1826.
